
DIAMOND DRILLING COMMENCES AT DOOLGUNNA

RNI NL (ASX: RNI) is pleased to announce that drilling of the 800m diamond drill hole has commenced at the Cuba copper-gold prospect at the Company's Doolgunna Project in Western Australia's Bryah Basin. Commencement of the hole had been planned for early July, but suffered delays due to the recent inclement weather and associated flooding.

As outlined previously (ASX announcement 29 June 2016), the diamond hole is designed to follow-up on the reverse circulation (RC) drilling program at Cuba which successfully defined an anomalous volcanic hosted massive sulphide (VHMS) horizon proximal to the high-grade DeGrussa and Monty copper-gold discoveries. The deep diamond hole is designed to more accurately target the source of the VHMS anomalism and provide a platform for a downhole electromagnetic (DHEM) survey.
